Let's Start!

Pronunciation Spot: Sally is getting ready for her trip. What does she need?

Learning Outcome

Accurately explain information about interests, hobbies, and preferences in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can say and use the controlled vowel sound ar.
- I can say simple statements.
- I can identify key information in a short audio.

Ask a partner:

- Do you like to pay with cash? Why or why not?
- Do you prefer to use a credit card? Why or why not?

Let's Explore!

Sally and Vanessa talk about money matters.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Sally: Hey, Vanessa.
Vanessa: Hi, Sally. Do you want a coffee?
Sally: Sure. I'll pay today. I just got my new credit card.
Vanessa: Oh really? What kind?
Sally: AXIS, it's perfect for traveling. I can get frequent flyer miles while I travel as well.
Vanessa: Nice. When did you get it?
Sally: I just picked it up from the bank. The fees and charges are low too, only $25 a year.
Vanessa: Wow, that's cheap! Having a credit card is a smart idea, especially when you are traveling.
Sally: Yeah, I'm getting organized.
Vanessa: Look after it. It's valuable.
Sally: Yeah, I have to be careful. I don't want to lose it.
Vanessa: Imagine the frequent flyer miles you will get. Are you getting excited?
Sally: Very excited. I'm bringing a bit of cash for little things.
Vanessa: Well ... let's try out that credit card. I'll have a cappuccino and a muffin. Thanks!

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

R Controlled Vowels

If a vowel is followed by an r, it creates another sound. These sounds are called r controlled vowels.

These sounds are as follows:

- ar sound as in car, guitar, card, smart
- ir sound as in birth, girl
- or sound as in manor, author
- er sound as in butter, cutter, and mother

ir sound	girl	the back of the tongue moves upward so the sides of your tongue push against the back side teeth (same as the r sound)
ar sound	card	the tongue is flat in your mouth, held middle-low creating an r sound
or sound	form	the tip of the tongue rolls slightly up and back creating an r sound
er sound	serve	the tongue is slightly rounded upward in the middle of the mouth creating the r sound
